Where would I be without my Sbemail Songs?

Wire	56781234

241-255	NAND

Previous digit was from 7 to D inclusive	Modulo 8
Stage divisible by 3	Subtract 5
Digit at this point is odd	Multiply by F
Majority of sequence is odd	Add 4
None of the above rules applied	Change digit to 10 _{hex} minus digit

On this module will be a stage display in hexadecimal, a larger rectangular display below, a play button and a 4×4 grid of hexadecimal digits. Pressing the play button will play a short audio clip called a “sbemail song” that has a number associated with it. Every time a non-ignored module is solved, this module will change which sbemail song is played. NOTE: If there are no non-ignored modules present, press the play button to immediately solve.

See here or Appendix SBS for a full list of sbemail song transcriptions. NOTE: In the case of more than one of the same number, such as 122a/122b or 193/193~~†~~ where the transcriptions are completely different, only the first of each can appear on the module.

At each stage, take the number associated with the current sbemail song and convert it to binary, with zeros added to the left to make it 8 bits long if needed. Rearrange the binary number as shown in the first table depending on what was in the name of the last solved module. For modules that contain more than one of these names (e.g. Morse-A-Maze), apply all appropriate rearrangements from the top down. For modules that contain the same name more than once (e.g. Simon Simons), only apply the appropriate rearrangement once. For stage 1, before any modules are solved, do not rearrange the binary number. On every pair of bits, perform the bitwise operator corresponding to the resulting number to make the sequence 4 bits long, then convert it to a hexadecimal digit. Modify this digit according to the third table. If the digit exceeds 10_{hex} at any point, modulo 10_{hex} before continuing.

Throughout solving modules, make a sequence of the resulting digits. After every non-ignored module is solved, this module will allow the 4×4 grid of buttons to be pressed. Submit the obtained sequence to solve the module. There is no penalty for attempting to press any of the buttons in the 4×4 grid before this change.
